MEMORANDUM FOR THE RECORD

SUBJECT: Briefing on UN Activities

Colonel Gerald M. Adams, JCS representative to the United Nations, presented a short briefing on September 24, 1970, outlining activities planned to be taken up in the United Nations sessions this fall. His briefing specifically covered those activities of interest to the Air Force which are listed in the attached printed agenda. Of special interest to us are his comments on activities pertaining to outer space. Colonel Adams remarked that there were many significant actions being discussed in this area but found almost no one in the military who was interested or concerned or knowledgeable. I explained that we were very concerned and asked him for a private session following the general briefing.

Colonel Adams is cleared SI, TK. Thus we were able to explain to him that we were very concerned and why we were concerned with activities in space being discussed before the United Nations. Lt Colonel Lawrence McCarthy, who accompanied Colonel Adams to our office, explained that indeed the NRO has had substantive comments in the past which were reflected in documents to the United Nations.

Colonel Adams voiced his personal concern over some of the events currently taking place with respect to space technology. For example, he stated there is presently a library at the United Nations filled with technical information on space which has been furnished by the United States. He expressed concern also over current NASA and State Department proposals for cooperation in space. He referred to the speech by President Nixon before the General Assembly in 1969, and said that the State Department and NASA have taken this as a charter to proceed at what he feels is a much faster pace than had been indicated. There is a Mr. Thatcher assigned to the US mission at the United Nations, who is responsible for many of the United States position papers on space matters. Mr. Thatcher is, we understand, a former CIA employee now employed by State Department and does understand the fact of satellite reconnaissance. This does not, however, keep him from proposing items for discussion which we feel are very sensitive. Mr. Thatcher appears to work unilaterally and resents questions from Colonel Adams, which he feels are interfering with his work. Thus, Colonel Adams feels constrained in working with Mr. Thatcher and making suggestions to him.

We assured Colonel Adams of our continuing interest in all matters pertaining to space which are discussed by the United Nations. We solicited his assistance in making sure that we are informed on important matters and asked him to send us appropriate messages and documents so that we might be informed, and so that we might make appropriate inputs. He assured us that he would do this to the extent of his ability.
